February 19th: First Cruise of the Year Historic Flagstaff

February 19th was surprisingly mild and members made the most of it, cruising through historic downtown Flagstaff. It sure is nice to dust off the cars and get back on the road. What a nice selection of cars, too. Hope everyone is getting ready for cruise and show season!

March 5th: Martin Auto Museum Grand Reopening

Club member Ron Fischer attended the event and sent back this report. It sounds like great destination for motor heads. Thanks, Ron, for sharing this with us.

Suzanne, here are a couple photos I took at the Martin Auto Museum last Saturday. The museum is fantastic & so much larger & well designed than the older one. The displays were great, the crowds were awesome & live music is always good. Outside there were At least as many visitor cars as inside. This is a must see for car people like we have in our club. Take care.

Ron Fisher

Great way to represent the club! Those door magnets look fantastic on that car.

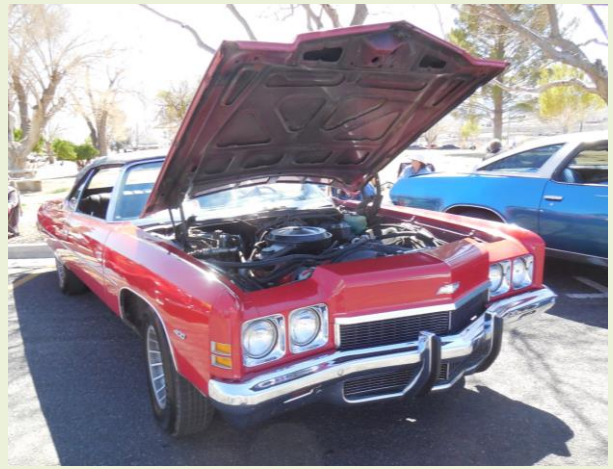

11TH ANNUAL CLARKDALE CAR SHOW MARCH 12TH

It was a gorgeous day for a car show, whether bringing a car or walking through as a spectator. The show cut off entries at just over 100, but it was a great selection of cars, and there were beauties on the side streets that got there just a little too late to make it to the show. We went as spectators and ran into several friends, some of whom had cars there, others who were also enjoying the lovely day and gorgeous scenery.

Speaking of which – everyone wants to see the photos...so here we go....

*No matter what's going on in the world,
Life's better at a Car Show!*

Mother Road Archive Ale

Benefiting NAU Special Collections

MARCH 3, 2022, Flagstaff Business News by Bonnie Stevens

Mother Road Archive Ale Benefiting NAU Special Collections - Flagstaff Business News

For Mother Road, our roots are here. We want to talk about those roots and how deep they run.

Like many great stories, this one began over beer. As Mother Road Brewing Company Storyteller Billy Miller tells it, brewery founder Michael Marquess was having a beer with Northern Arizona University Cline Library Special Collections Archivist Sean Evans. Afterward, Evans invited Marquess to visit the library to see the Fred Harvey Collection associated with Route 66. "Michael took an interest because that's what Michael does. He's dedicated to history."

So, what started as a playful conversation about all the connections to Route 66, Marquess, an NAU alum, learned that NAU received a grant to survey diverse Route 66 populations. "That means everyone – all the varied, distinct and distinguished who live along the Mother Road," said Marquess.

The grant would afford Special Collections the ability to hire two paid interns to examine the collection, document oral histories and archive the many boxes associated with America's Mother Road. "The Fred Harvey Collection is more than 100 boxes alone!" said Evans.

"This was an opportunity to celebrate their archiving," said Marquess. "And the flavor – it's winter. A good, dark beer seems to match."

Thus, was born Archive Ale, a Russian Imperial Stout, smooth with notes of coffee, chocolate, tobacco, and dark fruit, and strong at 9.1% ABV, or alcohol by volume (most beers are 5% to 7%).

“It’s a take-no-prisoners kind of beer – you better not be planning on doing anything after drinking it,” said Evans. “And it’s marvelous.”

Also marvelous, according to Evans, is the label. “Michael called us [in the past] to see if the brewery could use an image for a beer label. We thought, ‘Why not?’ We had no way to figure out how to charge someone to put a historic image on a beer label.”

After sorting through a great number of old photographs, the Archive Ale label was created with an iconic image by documentary photographer Bob Fronske circa 1955, as the kind of classic postcard photo popped in the mail with a two-cent stamp.

“Telling the story of Route 66 on a beer can label emphasizes the importance of the effort to survey and find out more about the many different people of Route 66,” says Miller, the storyteller. “It’s a non-traditional way to bring attention and support to Special Archives and it allows us to tell more stories.”

“That image tells you so much about downtown — all of the signage and neon,” said Evans. “It’s our town, the business end, where tourists would have visited. It shows the modernization, yet you get to see the sides of the building circa 1900. Anyone could look at that and say, ‘I get where they are. That’s Flagstaff.’”

As Miller explains, Mother Road Brewing Co. is a values-based brand. “The story may start with a can that has a label on it, but then you figure out the brand supports Cline Library Special Collections and Archives. And the discussion progresses to the work that they are doing and the reason behind it. For Mother Road, our roots are here. We want to talk about those roots and how deep they run.”

Because Archive Ale came out during the pandemic, Miller says the company was resourceful and found ways to make great beer and make it available despite an aluminum-can shortage. “We were taking old cans already printed and re-wrapping them to give them a second life.”

Archive Ale has sold out and the library has received thousands of dollars from a portion of the brew’s sales. “That allowed us to hire another project archivist to revamp the notoriously messy Route 66 collection,” said Evans. “Because of Michael’s generosity, we are able to make the collection even more available.”

Marquess is considering continuing the Archive Ale project, which, as Miller says, is what Marquess does. For example, a portion of the sales from Mother Road’s Conserve and Protect Golden Ale – more than $30,000 – has been donated to the Arizona Game and Fish Department for conservation projects.

“Michael is just a fun guy who makes great beer and is committed to his community,” said Evans.

Car season is fast approaching. Just a reminder that we live in Flagstaff where it can snow in May. Always practice safe car washing procedures. Do not take any undue risks such as Lucille, here, is doing.

Obviously, she is not in Flagstaff in March as she is not frozen to the fender.

Who can name the movie this scene is from? How about the make and year of the car?

About movies and cars...How many of these can you identify? Extra credit if you get the movie, the make, and the year correct. Some are easy. Some are harder.

To Route 66 Car Club,

The Flagstaff Area Monuments is in the process of creating a short non-profit Film documenting the Scenic Drive and the history of automotive tourism at Sunset Crater and Wupatki National Monument. Since this short film focuses on 'taking the journey' and 'enjoying the drive' and connects to the history of Route 66 we were hoping a few members of your club would be interested in cruising this scenic loop road while our film maker is on site capturing images of their vehicles to use in this short feature that inspires a new generation to enjoy the ride.

We are specifically looking for:

1. 3-5 vehicles showing variety new, old, hot rods, American, European, motorcycles, all are welcome. Reliable vehicle to drive the one-hour loop road with frequent stops for filming.
2. One small group 1-3 singles/couples/cars in which we have footage from the inside of the car, images of drivers/passengers enjoying the scenic drive. of passengers exiting car and going on a trail. Basically, a sequence shot throughout the drive telling the journey from these cars/peoples' perspective.
3. 2-5 people willing to have voice recorded asking and answering questions or telling stories about their experiences in the parks. Non-scripted this will be recorded as authenticity reactions to the park/driving experience.
4. Availability in June 2022/flexible on specific days. Available 3-4 hours during the day to drive the loop road and make multiple stops for filming, may be able to reduce filming to 1-2 hours for a few of the vehicles if needed. Each interested person can schedule on separate days or together as a group activity.

Any interested members please contact me individually by email cassandra_hall@nps.gov or Office 928- 526- 3367 to discuss details and scheduling. I look forward to hearing from you!

Good afternoon,

My name is Lori, and I am emailing because I would like to reach out to as many people as possible. My parents are having an estate sale with many antiques, but the main thing is the Model T's (16-18) that are in various stages of restoration and a 23 Buick. I am hoping to get these cars into the right hands who would appreciate them and love the hobby. The auction is on March 26 in Clovis, CA. I have provided the link to the auction so you can look at what is there, and the website will be updated with more pictures leading up to the date. They will also provide the address and time the day before.

If you could please pass this on. Thank you so much,

Lori Daulton <https://hewlettsauctions.com/march-26%2C-2022>

Hi,

I'm not happy doing this. My dad left me his 56 panel. In 1975 him and I restored a good part of this panel. He used to be president of your club.

Randy Travis is living in a care facility in Sun City. My siblings were not very nice to him by taking him off the mountain where he lived for over 30 years. I don't have a choice but to sell the panel.

I'm asking 28,000.00 for it. It's in a covered storage in Camp Verde.

If by chance someone in the club wants it, please have them call me at 907-764-6439

Thank you

Scott Travis
